

Acknowledgements

We thank our colleagues in the Western Regional Coordinating Committee 37: "Maximizing the Effectiveness of Bees as Crop Pollinators" for initially suggesting the need for a symposium on the issue of bee introductions, and for encouraging us to organize the symposium. We particularly thank the symposium speakers, attendees and participants in the discussions, and those who contributed to this volume. Other colleagues provided constructive reviews of the submitted manuscripts. Helpful reviews of this essay were provided by John Vinson, Linda Kervin, Vincent Tepedino, and two anonymous reviewers. However, the views expressed in this and the rest of the manuscripts in this volume are solely those of the authors of each essay.
