BioOne is an innovative nonprofit that sees sustainable scholarly publishing as an inherently collaborative enterprise connecting authors, nonprofit publishers, academic institutions, research libraries, and research funders in the common goal of maximizing access to critical research.

The McClung Committee is pleased to announce

Jennifer Berger
the winner of the C.E. McClung Award
for the best research paper
published in Bios, Volume 79

Jennifer Berger and Teresa DeGolier. 2008. Pharmacological effects of the aqueous extract of Caulophyllum thalictroides (blue cohosh) on isolated Mus musculus uteri. Bios 79(3):103-114.

The C.E. McClung Award is presented each year to the Tribetan who wrote the most outstanding research paper published in Bios for that year. The award is an inscribed plaque and a cash payment of $150.00. A member of the Executive Committee heads the selection committee and, in general, the rules of the Brooks Award apply, except that it is not necessary to present the work at a TriBeta convention. The award is named in honor of Dr. C.E. McClung, second president of Beta Beta Beta, who was a strong advocate of undergraduate research as a teaching method.
